The Polynesian.

NEW YEAR'S MORNING HYMN. Awake my soul! the New Year's sun His daily circuit has begun; Awake from sloth and heavenward raise, Thy nobler powers to God in praise. Repent of all thy errors past, Live truly while this year shall last; See all thy converse is sincere, Thy actions as the noon day clear. Known unto God are all thy ways, His eye thy inmost thought surveys; Then guard thy thoughts with constant care, And bind them near to him in prayer. Keep all this year thy end in sight, Make God's pure service thy delight; Each hour to him thy yows renew. Render each hour obedience due. Father! I ask thy love may fill My heart, and bend it to thy will; Suggest, direct, control each day, All that I think, or do, or say. When morning wakes my rested head,

From a refreshing, soothing bed, May my first thoughts to thee arise, Asking thou wouldst my steps devise. And when the gathering shades of night Hide outward objects from my sight, In faith and hope, with heart in prayer, May I be found within thy care. Thus ever may my thoughts ascend, To him on whom all hearts depend : To Christ, who guides my feet their way, Who sends the blessings of each day, On thee, dear Savior, I rely, From thee my thoughts would seek supply ; Teach me, as life's last hours draw near. The more all sinful thoughts to fear. And when on earth my work is done. When comes to me life's setting sun, Let me fall calmly to my rest, To be by sin no more oppressed. Honolulu, Jan. 1, 1854.

during the fifty intervening years the increase alone was very nearly as much as the aggregate population which had accumulated in twenty centuries. Thus the population has done that during the last fifty years, which the eleven centuries between the landing of Julius Cæsar and that of William the Conqueror had scarcely accomplished. At the same time it might easily be shown that the wealth of the country increased faster than its population. The 21,121,967 people in Great Britain are very unequally dispersed. In England and Wales they are at an average distance asunder of 108 yards In London they are within 14 yards of each other. In East London there are 185,751 persons to a square mile; in the district of Bellingham, Northumberland, there are only 18 persons to a square mile, or in London the population of a square mile is more than ten thousand times greater than that of Bellingham. In the towns the people are 5.2 persons to a square acre, in the country there are 53 acres to each person. - Placing three persons in every square yard, the whole population might be placed in 1,476 acres. In Great Britain there are 815 towns containing 10,556,288 persons, and 10,402,189 dwell in what, for the sake of distinction, is always called the country .- Nat. Intelligen-
